BARBARA NEELY

Barbara Neely is a novelist, short story writer, and author of the award-winning Blanche White novels. Her short stories have appeared in numerous journals and anthologies. Neely was the host of Commonwealth Journal, an award-winning weekly radio interview program produced by the University of Massachusetts Boston and also directed Women for Economic Justice. In addition, she served as a producer for Africa News Service and designed and directed the first community-based corrections facility for women in Pennsylvania.