Dr. Kolleen Guy (left) is the 2014 recipient of the Richard S. Howe Outstanding Undergraduate Teaching Award, given to faculty who develop signature experiences outside of the classroom. Dr. Guy was recognized for her work over the years incorporating service learning and civic engagement projects into her courses.

Jennifer Dilley (right) is the 2014 recipient of the Quantitative Literacy Faculty Excellence Award, which recognizes her hard work as part of the team that transformed our World Civilization courses into Q-courses.

The awards were presented by COLFA Dean Dr. Daniel Gelo and History Department Chair Dr. Gregg Michel. Both recipients were taken by surprise as the awards were bestowed during their classes. Congratulations to both winners!
